

EPISCOPAL PRESENCE AT UNCSW 67

“Innovation and technological change, and education in the digital age for achieving gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls”

March 6th – 17th, 2023

Delegation of the Presiding Bishop of The Episcopal Church

Delores Alleyne, Episcopal Church in Connecticut (Province I) resides in New Haven, Connecticut. She has a BA in education. She is a cradle Episcopalian attending St. Luke's Episcopal Church, where she began her Christian journey and at an early age became a member of the Girls' Friendly Society, a girls ministry in The Episcopal Church where she established her Christian values of "Love your neighbor as yourself". In her adult life, she lives her life by the GFS motto "Bear Ye One Another's Burdens and so live the Law of Christ." She attended two prior UNCSW sessions, which profoundly impacted her life. The excitement and emotions, and stories told by women and their quest for equity compelled her to become involved in bringing awareness and attention to the injustices towards girls and women.

Mary Ellen Arthurs, Diocese of Virginia (Province III) is a life-long Episcopalian. She has most likely held every job in the church except priest. She is a school teacher, teaching 5th grade science in a small county in Virginia. Several years ago, she was offered the chance to go to Abu Dhabi to teach local children. When she arrived, she was assigned to a school full of girls. The Sheikh had just mandated that all girls be educated through 12th grade. It was her first experience with significant gender bias. She worked hard to reinforce that women could achieve anything and hold jobs outside the home. Today, she is proud that several of these young women are at university, and she still hears from them. She is pleased to serve the church and women around the world at CSW67.

Delegation of the Presiding Bishop of The Episcopal Church

Ailysh Cooper, Diocese of Chicago (Province V) is a high school art teacher in the Chicago suburbs. A lifelong Episcopalian, she has served in a variety of roles in her churches, but this is her first foray into the greater Episcopal Church. Actively involved in arts education, she sponsors four clubs at her school. She is an art education YouTuber, an art camp counselor and instructor, and a board member of the Illinois Art Education Association, from which she received the Art Educator of the Year 2022 award for the state of Illinois. She is pursuing a master's degree in art education. At UNCSW, she plans to use her experience as a teacher to help make education equitable to all learners.

The Reverend Elizabeth Garnsey, Episcopal Church in Connecticut (Province I) is an associate rector at St. Mark's New Canaan, in Connecticut. Some of Garnsey's previous advocacy experience includes involvement with Anglican Women's Empowerment (AWE) when it hosted Episcopal delegates traveling to the UNCSW. In a former associate rector position with Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York City, she was active with the Carpenter's Kids program, which helped ensure hundreds of children could attend school. As a missionary of the American Friends of the Episcopal Diocese of Jerusalem (AFEDJ), she has traveled to the Episcopal hospitals and medical clinics, trade schools, and institutes for the deaf and blind in Israel, Palestine, and Jordan. She has also worked in community organizing and with many Interfaith efforts.
