INTRODUCTION

The catechism of the Book of Common Prayer tells us that the mission of the Church is “to restore all people to unity with God and each other in Christ,” and that the Church lives out this mission “as it prays and worships, proclaims the Gospel, and promotes justice, peace, and love.” The pursuit of a world that more closely reflects God’s dream for it – thy Kingdom come on earth as it is in heaven – is central to basic Christian discipleship and the identity of all who are baptized.

The Episcopal Church adopts policies on a range of public policy matters related to justice and peace through General Convention, the governing body of the Church and the Church’s highest temporal authority. Many of these resolutions are directed towards the Office of Government Relations, the Episcopal Public Policy Network, or the Washington Office.

The Office of Government Relations was established in 1979 and has been a core part of the Church’s public witness for more than 40 years. The Office, sometimes also called the Washington Office, is charged with representing the policy positions of the Church to the federal government in Washington, D.C. The Office also aims to educate and equip Episcopalians to carry out the Church’s ministry of public policy advocacy, primarily through the Episcopal Public Policy Network. The staff of OGR support the advocacy of Episcopalians through relationship building with key Congressional offices and government officials, deep connections with coalitions, and analysis of relevant legislation and policy initiatives. Through the Episcopal Public Policy Network, Episcopalians can send Action Alerts to Congressional representatives, have access to advocacy and issue-based resources, and participate in in-person advocacy days as well as virtual webinars and briefings.

The Office of Government Relations works in partnership with others throughout the Church and the staff of the Church Center to maximize the impact of our advocacy.

The following document lists in brief resolutions of The Episcopal Church pertaining to public policy, representing the breadth of our Church’s witness on a variety of subjects, local and global. (Note: this document does not include many resolutions pertaining to issues within the structure, canons, programs, and other aspects of the institution.) Each has been adopted through the deliberation of our bicameral governing body, General Convention, or Executive Council. The policies listed are grouped by subject area, an occasionally imperfect but helpful means of creating an index of hundreds of resolutions. A searchable full text is linked by each resolution. These are all also searchable via The Archives of the Episcopal Church.

As you use this resource, please be sure to join the effort in carrying out the call of these resolutions by signing up for the Episcopal Public Policy Network, a church-wide network of grassroots advocates run and resourced by The Episcopal Church’s Office of Government Relations.
